

Friday

August 4

Dear Heavenly Father,
No matter what the _____ family is facing today, I thank you that one day gladness and joy will overtake them. No matter how insurmountable their circumstances, I praise you that one day their sorrow and sighing will flee away. Father, I ask that each and every day you would give them a glimpse of eternity so that they can put the cares of today into perspective. Help them to remember that when they reach heaven, all the imperfections and illnesses of their bodies will be healed. [Child's name] will be healthy and whole as well! Lord, I thank you that while he/she is living on this earth that you have a plan to cause him/her to be victorious and to overcome obstacles. I thank you that there is untapped potential for him/her yet to reach while on this earth. But, Lord, I also thank you that from an eternal perspective, he/she will be completely whole and completely healed, and that all of today's cares will fade away. I thank you for that wonderful promise and hope for this family.

In Jesus' Name, Amen

“Gladness and joy will overtake them,
and sorrow and sighing will flee away.”
(Isaiah 51:11, NIV)

Journal Notes: