

Friday

August 4

Dear Heavenly Father,
No matter what we are facing today, we know that one day gladness and joy will overtake us. No matter how insurmountable our circumstances, we praise you that one day our sorrow and sighing will flee away. Father, we ask that each and every day you would give us a glimpse of eternity so that we can put the cares of today into perspective. Help us to remember that when we reach heaven, all the imperfections and illnesses of our bodies will be healed. _____ will be healthy and whole as well! Lord, we thank you that while he/she is living on this earth that you have a plan to cause him/her to be victorious and to overcome obstacles. We thank you that there is untapped potential for him/her yet to reach while on this earth. But, Lord, we also thank you that from an eternal perspective, he/she will be completely whole and completely healed, and that all of today's cares will fade away. We thank you for that wonderful promise.

In Jesus' Name,

Journal Notes:

“Gladness and joy will overtake them,
and sorrow and sighing will flee away.”
(Isaiah 51:11, NIV)